

LINE EXTENDS TO OKLAHOMA STREET

Extension Will Be Ready for Operation Within Ten Days

SIX-MINUTE SERVICE

Since September 1, 1920, Company has Expended $215,000 on Improvements

Within the next 10 days the Tulsa Street Railway company's extension on North Cheyenne will be ready for the operation of cars, giving service on the Main street line from Eighteenth street on the south to Oklahoma street on the north. The extension now nearly completed extends about 1,500 feet north of the present terminus.

According to B. Hilburn, superintendent of the street railway company, it is probable more cars will be placed on the Main street line and that six-minute service will be established.

Since September 1, 1920, the Tulsa Street Railway company has invested $215,000 in its system, as shown by the record of expenditures. Virtually all of this was new money, as the net profits for this period were approximately $15,000. Improvements planned by the company for the coming year represent an additional investment of $100,000.

The improvements already completed are shown by the company's books to have been as follows: Double tracking on south Main from Thirteenth to Fifteenth, $15,000; Double tracking on South Main from Third street to Erieo track, $20,000.

Applied on purchase of six new safety cars, $12,000.

Installation of new airbrake equipment, $15,000.

Building seven new cars, $40,000.

Extension on South Main, $15,000.

Car barn addition, $10,000.

Trainmen's quarters and office building, $20,000.

Paving and reconstruction in Kendall, $65,000.

Paving on South Quincy, $5,000.

As shown by the above itemized list of expenditures, Kendall has been the largest beneficiary. Tulsa University is now only 23 minutes from Third and Main, and First and Lewis 15 minutes from the same point, with a car each seven and one-half minutes during regular hours and additional cars for rush hours.

It is a 12-minute ride from Third and Main to the north end of the Main street line on Cheyenne, while the South Main street terminus is 11 minutes from Third, and seven and one-half minutes to the Main street line.

Bus service to Tulsa University is operated at present with four large all-steel buses with a round trip schedule of 32 minutes, or 15 minutes each way, which provides eight-minute service. Superintendent Hilburn announced Monday that at least one extra bus will be placed on this line during rush hours as soon as the company's new buses are received from the factory. The addition of one bus will change the schedule to seven minutes.

The schedule was maintained last Saturday afternoon when a large bus owned by the Tulsa company was borrowed and added to the regular fleet. This bus is to be used each Saturday afternoon until the new ones arrive, Hilburn said.

"Unfair street competition, the war period with its attendant high operating costs, and low rates of fare have made it very difficult to properly develop the property of the Tulsa Street Railway company," Hilburn stated, while commenting on the local transportation situation.

"Like all other business enterprises, development of the company depends entirely on the amount of capital available. The amount of capital available depends entirely on the attractiveness of the business enterprise from an investment standpoint. Because of the uncertainty that has gone hand in hand with the jitney competition, and the lack of proper franchise rights, nothing else could be expected than that investors would decline to put money into the property.

"With reference to what is meant by unfair jitney competition, suffice to say that the operators of jitneys have not been required to make large initial investments; they are not required to pay the heavy taxes on their equipment; they are not required to pay anything for the maintenance of paving over which they operate; they have never gone into any district and - ven service where the property owners have not gone down into their pockets and paved the streets for them; they have not been required to be responsible for injuries or damages in case of accidents.

"It is reasonable to suppose that if the street railway company could be relieved of all these responsibilities it could provide many times better service. Notwithstanding the fact that it does have these responsibilities, the street railway company has spent considerable money in the past two years, under circumstances that made it almost impossible to secure the money. The major portion of this has gone to Tulsa labor."

Reports from patrons of the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth street bus recently installed by the street railway company are to the effect that the improvement has been found entirely satisfactory.

Fitzgerald Funeral From Presbyterian Church at 4 o'clock

Bringing the body of their son John E. Fitzgerald, who fell to his death in Boulder, Colo., last Friday night, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Fitzgerald arrived home last night at 6 o'clock. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

So far as is known, young Fitzgerald fell from the summit of Flatiron mountain while on a climbing expedition. His brother Harry, Jr., and his mother were with him in Colorado this summer and his father left Sunday to meet them in Tulsa, Kan., immediately upon receiving news of the tragedy. The dead boy was the eldest son of Harry Fitzgerald, oil producer and had just finished in the academy at the University of Tulsa. With his mother and brother he had been three weeks in Colorado on his vacation.

Rev. C. W. Kerr will have charge of the funeral services which will be held at 3 o'clock from the First Presbyterian church.

JULY BUILDING PASSES MILLION

Best July in Construction Field in History of City

With the issuance Monday of a $500,000 permit for the new Exchange National bank building, July, 1922, topped any previous July in Tulsa's history and became this year's banner building month with a total of $1,213,000. With 29 more days of this month for the total to be swelled, Building Inspector Frank C. Walter expects July to close with more than $1,500,000 in permits.

Ground was broken for the new Exchange National addition Monday afternoon. The permit issued Monday covers one-third of the foot, which will be about $1,500,000, according to W. H. Horster, the contractor. The time necessary for completion is estimated at nine months.

July, 1919, was the nearest competitor to the first 10 days of July, 1922. The building permit total then was $1,161,615. July, 1920 was next with $528,808.

An investigation of the city's records back to 1909, furnishes an interesting list for analysis into Tulsa's growth. With only two or three exceptions each year has shown a pronounced gain.

These figures follow:
In 1909, $73,485; 1910, $24,400; 1911, $60,730; 1912, $104,200; 1913, $127,297; 1914, $115,150; 1915, $242,865; 1916, $278,164; 1917, $718,131; 1918, $1,117,431; 1919, $1,161,615; 1920, $528,808.

Permits issued Monday in addition to that of the Exchange National bank were: J. H. Bradford, 1612 East Fifteenth, two-story house $6,000; J. E. Mines, 315 South Lawton, residence, $2,500; William Cummings, 1335 West Archer, addition $600; G. W. Brown, 715 West Eleventh, residence, $2,000; Silver Plume Lodge K. of P., 13 1/2 East Second, remodeling lodge room, $2,000; B. G. Goble, 237 East Independence, residence, $2,500; Arthur Scott, 216 North Elgin place, residence, $500; Max Kahn, 15 East First, shelving and mezzanine floor, $1,000; Agard building company, 1255 S. Anderson, 2735 East Tenth, residence $4,000.

Total surface area of the world approximately 137,000,000 square miles.
